CACH Capital Management, LLC Honors Joanne Herring at Austin Reception
-Herring comments on the events depicted in the movie "Charlie Wilson's War"-

Austin, Texas, January 21, 2008 — CACH Capital Management, LLC hosted a private reception today for Joanne King Herring, the renowned Houston philanthropist, socialite, political activist and former Ambassador. The event acknowledged her many contributions to society including her political leadership as was depicted in the movie "Charlie Wilson's War". Former Texas Secretary of State Geoffrey S. Connor, CACH Chairman, and Michael J. Hundley, President and CEO of CACH, organized the event which was held at the Headliner's Club today.

A list of distinguished political figures and business leaders from across the state attended the reception in order to hear Herring's comments on the events depicted in the movie. Herring was recently portrayed by Julia Roberts in the film released December 21, 2007 by Universal Studios.

Being a global firm focused on wealth management, CACH understands and values the political personalities that have an influence on national economies. Joanne Herring's support of Charlie Wilson's covert CIA mission during the Soviet War in Afghanistan hastened the end of the Cold War.

"Anyone who knows Joanne Herring understands that she is a powerhouse of influence," commented Connor, "Her efforts and determination literally changed the balance of international political power and, ultimately, the course of history."

Herring assisted U.S. Representative Charlie Wilson in persuading the American government to train and arm Afghanistan resistance fighters as they fended off Soviet troops who had occupied their country in 1979. The duo teamed up to accomplish the seemingly impossible task of arming Afghanistan troops so that they could defeat the Soviets.

Throughout her life, Herring has been a social and political force - from socialite, to a 15 year stint as a popular television talk show host in Houston, to conservative political activist, to current day philanthropist.

"We wanted to acknowledge her bravery and leadership," stated Hundley, "She has put so much of her time into serving others; it seemed only appropriate that we use the release of the film as an opportunity to recognize her multitude of contributions."
